Two Chinamen were engaged doing kitchen work, and Cockburn entered their department to get a pan which he desired to use. Some hard words had been exchanged earlier in the morning between the parties, relative to the possession of a broom, which each desired to use. The opportunity was seized upon by the Chinamen when Cockburn asked the use of the pan. A tussle followed, during which three Chinamen got the boy down and might have killed him, but for the interference of the proprietor, Mr. White, who separated them. The Chinamen made some threats about killing the boy, whereupon the latter procured a five-shooter and opened fire on them, hitting the first in the right shoulder, the ball ranging downward and backward, and the second in the left side in the region of the heart, from the effects of which he expired in a few minutes. A third had the side of his head grazed by the ball and a part of his ear carried away. Cockburn was taken into custody. THE VOICE OF YAMHILL.

AMITY, July 17, 1873.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE OREGONIAN:

As it is an unquestionable right of the people to investigate the proceedings of our public servants, I would respectfully ask a place in the columns of your paper to pay a short tribute to our United States Senator.

The actions of Mr. Hipple, alias Mitchell, deserve the most rigid scrutiny. Never in the history of our country has a man with such an execrable history as our Senator entered the United States Senate. Nor, as I believe, could there be found another who would accept the position under such circumstances. Undenied report says that in his younger days (and not so very young, after all) he seduced a young girl. He subsequently married her, but ran away, after a time, a defaulter to his law partner, that, for fear Mr. Thompson (his partner) might follow him, perhaps "to the end of the earth, if he did not make this matter right, he sent back to his partner, at different times, sums sufficient in the aggregate to adjust his indebtedness with him; that he then kept a harlot in California, afterward came to Oregon and married, five years prior to the time his wife in Pennsylvania was divorced from him, and thereby committed bigamy. He fraudulently changed his name from J. M. Hipple to John H. Mitchell, and under this false name palmed himself off on honest people and obtained the office of United States Senator. The catalogue of his "youthful indiscretions" has been disclosed, and now the whole world can point the finger of derision at our once immaculate but now outraged State. What are we to do? A man with such an infamous record cannot command any influence in the United States Senate. When he arises on the floor to speak, that alias, with all the crimes associated with it, will rise up before the minds of the Senators; scorn, not unmixed with shame, will take the place of respectful attention. We have important measures concerning our State which we want attended to. We need a Senator—not a thing—to watch and guard those matters. Must the interests of our State lie dormant for six years? No! He ought to resign. Justice demands him to resign. Every right-thinking man, woman and child will say, Resign! Common sense ought to show him that he is not wanted. Nor should the matter stop here.

What kind of a defense has he offered? None. He has simply acknowledged the principal charges (though he at first branded them as false), and seeks to excuse himself by resorting to the baby plea, "indiscretions of youth." A very youthful chap, indeed—a practicing lawyer, to be sure, but yet a mere boy, a rash, impetuous lad.

I heard two prominent Republicans in Salem say, the other day, that if the Republicans did not all come out boldly and drop Mitchell, this State would be sure to go Democratic this fall for Congressman, and it looks plausible. Hundreds of Republicans will not vote the Republican ticket this fall if this man Hipple is not at once discarded. This is common talk. The OREGONIAN is praised everywhere for the impartial but fearless exposure of Hipple, alias Mitchell.

I would have preferred to use milder terms in speaking of our United States Senator, but I cannot find them in the dictionary without adopting language that is clearly inapplicable to the case.

NOTA BENE.

SENSIBLE REMARKS ON THE INDIAN POLICY.

In the trial of U. S. v. Gonzales, for disposing of spirituous liquor to an Indian, in the U. S. District Court on Friday, counsel for defendent, in his argument to the jury, characterized all Indians as murderers and liars and denounced the Peace Policy as a contemptible failure and humbug. In the course of his charge to the jury Judge Deady referred to this subject as follows:

"Counsel for defendant has taken a wide range in his argument, and has gone out of the case to condemn the general policy of the Government towards the Indians. What the Peace Policy has to do with the trial of the issue in this case, is not apparent; but in my judgment the policy of peace and good will in our relations with the Indian tribes, wherever and whenever the same is possible, is worthy of the best efforts of a civilized people, and I am well assured from my own experience and observation, that if this policy had been pursued with the Modocs for the past twenty years, and the laws regulating trade and intercourse between them and the whites had been faithfully enforced against the latter, the bloody and costly war of the Lava-beds would never have occurred—the cruel death of General Canby would not be mourned by his country and family, and the innocent settlers on Lost River would not have fallen victims to an incensed and oft outraged savage."

Col. J. Madison Drake, of the Third Regiment National Guard, State of New Jersey, is now on trial before a court-martial at Newark, for insubordination and disobedience of orders. The New York Times furnishes the following summarized history of the case:

The entire first division was ordered out for parade and inspection, at the unvailing of the Camden County Soldiers' Monument at Camden, on June 9th. Col. Drake, of the Third Regiment, took advantage of the opportunity to visit Philadelphia as the guest of its soldiers, with some of whom the Third Regiment had long been on friendly terms, and exchanged the ordinary courtesies. The occasion was to be made one of unusual interest, as the Third was to be reviewed by Governor Parker, Governor Hartranft, and the Mayor and Councils of Philadelphia. Permission had been asked and received of Governor Parker, as Commander-in-Chief, and from Governor Hartranft, to enter Pennsylvania fully armed and equipped, but Major General De Hart, commander of the division, had not been consulted. When, therefore, the Third Regiment, at the conclusion of the parade and inspection, withdrew from the line, General De Hart sent an aid to the ferry to forbid the regiment from crossing the river and to place Colonel Drake under arrest. Colonel Drake disobeyed both orders, and the parade took place in Philadelphia. Charges were of course preferred against him, and, under date of June 24th, Major General Gershom Mott, commanding, issued a special order for a court-martial to convene at Newark on the 8th inst., to try the cause.

The farmers of Carroll county, Illinois, have stepped to the front. They had a grand celebration on the Fourth, and among the sentiments inscribed on their banners we note the following: "No more Republicans." "No more Democrats!" "We want and must have honest men to fill public positions!" "Corn must go up!" "Monopolies must come down!" "Salary of our Congressman, one hundred bushels of corn per day!" The Chicago Times says that concealed behind some bushels on a distant knoll was an emissary from that organization of "model farmers," the "American Protection League" of pig-iron pirates, with a spy glass to his sinister eye. He was trying to discover some one with the inscription: "Don't carry your movement into politics." He didn't succeed.

It is reported that Prince Arthur will arrive in Copenhagen, seeking the betrothal of the Princess Thyra, the youngest sister of the Princess Alexandra, wife of the Prince of Wales. Princess Thyra was born September 29, 1853.

THE TERRITORIES.

The Columbia has fallen about five and a half feet at Vancouver.

A jail bird at Olympia took his flight last week, but was recaptured at Kalama the next day.

Some gentlemen from Iowa are looking about Vancouver with a view to the establishment of a large tannery at that place.

The Bellingham Bay Coal Company, at Sehome, has nearly one hundred employees and turns out, on an average, a hundred tons of coal a day.

One of Oregon's leading iron mongers and founders is at present in Tacoma, and it is said by the people there to have selected a location for a large foundry.

Mr. McGlynn, Indian Agent at Lummi Reservation, has been prosecuting offenders for selling liquor to Indians. One was fined $25, and another is in jail.

A colored man was found lying in the brush in the suburbs of Vancouver, last Friday, in a very sick and feeble condition. He was unable to give any account of himself.

Three steamboats—the Dakota, Selkirk and International—and several barges are plying on Red river between Moorhead and Fort Garry, in connection with the Northern Pacific Railroad. The trade of Manitoba is increasing rapidly, and has already become of great importance to the railroad.

The boys at the Orphan Asylum at Vancouver who were reported as having their eyes blown out by some hoodlums, last week, it seems were the hoodlums themselves. They were playing with a toy cannon, and loaded it to the muzzle, then touched it off, and told that they were fired at by some one outside the grounds.

The plan for laying out the future city of Tacoma has not been adopted, and more than one will probably be submitted. Lots will probably be small, and a great many of these in a block; streets certainly not less than eighty feet in width, and perhaps a hundred, and avenues a hundred and twenty. Forty-feet alleys in each block have also been suggested.

At the annual congregational meeting of the Presbyterian Church, at Olympia, on Wednesday, the 16th inst., the following gentlemen were elected as the Board of Trustees for the year beginning July 1st, 1873: Messrs. Alex. Holmes, Wm. Brown, James S. Allen, Alex. Farquar and General Milroy. Messrs. A. Norwood and Jackson Bush were chosen ushers. It was resolved to reserve one-third of the pews of the church free for the benefit of strangers and other friends who may worship with the congregation.

Governor Bennett and General Shanks have started on a visit to the Cœur d'Alene and Spokane Indians, on matters connected with their Indian Commission. They will also visit the Lapwai Agency, and on their return [illegible] the Umatilla Indians. The General is the Chairman of the Indian Committee in Congress, and the object of this Commission is to secure reservations for the Indians that they will stay on, and keep a permanent peace with the whites. On their return, which will be about the 24th of August, they will visit the Fort Hall Indians.

Mr. L. F. Thompson informs the Transcript that crops of all kinds will be heavy this year in Puyallup valley—in fact, they never looked so well. Messrs. Mead & Thompson expect to gather 18,000 pounds of hops this season from seven acres of ground. Messrs. Meeker, Miller, Stuart and Dickinson will have over 20,000 pounds more. These hops bring the highest prices in San Francisco and Portland markets, and are superior to any in the market. A flouring mill is nearly ready to run, and two saw mills are in successful operation in the valley. The settlers look for great improvements in roads, in the navigation of the river, etc., very soon, now that the terminus is located near the mouth of the Puyallup. Several million feet of logs have already been driven down, and it is hoped that a steamer will be put on the river.

Mr. Henry Oliver, a farmer living on the flats between the Stillaquamish and Skagit rivers, has given the Olympia Transcript some valuable information concerning that part of the Territory. These rivers are connected by a slough, but are so far back toward the foot-hills that salt water never reaches that far. In time of high water the slough is filled by water from the Skagit, which is often backed up below by the salt water. Mr. Oliver and his neighbors have diked farms on these flats which for richness of soil cannot be excelled anywhere. Three tons of hay can be cut to the acre, and one hundred bushels of oats grown, and root crops and vegetables almost without limit. On three-quarters of an acre of ground, last year, he raised carrots from which he realized $240, besides having three tons left. For grain the straw grows too rank to be successful. The settlers value these lands at $30 per acre, and at this price it is estimated that a farm will clear itself in two years.

A gentleman arrived at Olympia on Tuesday of last week from East of the mountains, where he has been sojourning for a month or two past. He came by the way of the Snoqualmie Pass, bringing sixty head of fine beef cattle. The snow on the summit, for ten or twelve miles, was five feet deep, and the roads quite muddy and bad. The farmers were just beginning to harvest when he left the other side. All crops will be abundant and better than ever before. Cattle are fat this spring. Settlers near the Blue Mountains state that they have had showers of rain this season, which occurrence has never before been known in the summer. In Canyon City, bunch grass has this year headed out, but has not done so before for four years past. This is on account of the rains. In the Yakima the season is later than usual; but on the Columbia, harvest is over. There are three hundred Chinamen working in the placer gold diggings on the Wynachee, a tributary of the Yakima river, an additional number having gone in this summer. A number of settlers have prospected the mines and are satisfied they can make three dollars per day to the hand. They propose to go to gold digging as soon as their crops are harvested.

Shrewd Horace Hawes was a specific contract law unto himself. Caroline, his widow, brings suit in a San Francisco court to recover on a most extraordinary case. It is alleged that in 1864 Hawes leased to the defendant J. H. Blumenberg, a certain lot for a period of ten years, and that the lessee agreed to pay a monthly rental therefor of 43 ounces Troy weight, of gold bullion in ingots of 900 fine, or as an equivalent $800 in United States gold coin, and that if he failed to pay the rent when due, 10 per cent. should be added thereto. Suit is brought to recover the ingots.

Who has heard of Kuffel (not Calfee)? We have heard from him. He lives in Butler, Pennsylvania, foster-mother of eccentric manhood, and this is the message Colonel John K. sent to President Grant, a week since: "Your war policy does not meet the approbation of the people of this county. I propose to go with private counsel to defend Captain Jack and his accomplices against the laws of our common country. I am an old Calfor[illegible] man."

On Friday of last week, George, son of Wm. Harris, near Monroe, met with a serious accident while assisting his father in raising a building. Two of his fingers were fearfully crushed by a falling timber; one was entirely severed from the hand and it is feared the other will have to be amputated. He is a lad of twelve or fourteen years.

The Independent says: "The farmers of Washington county along the line of the railroad are organizing in a company to protect themselves against the loss of stock killed by the train. Several instances have occurred in which stock has been killed and the company has refused to pay only half the damages, and in some cases have refused to pay any."

Mr. Taylor Banes, while coming to Forest Grove a few days ago with a load of lumber from Mr. Stout's mill, met with almost a fatal accident. He was going down a steep hill and was standing up holding the brake, when the stick broke and he fell in front of the wagon, the wheels passing over his thigh, bruising him considerably, but not seriously. His wife, two children and Mr. Stout were on the wagon, but escaped injury by jumping.

The store of Darby & Kinney at Turner's station was broken open on Friday night and things scattered around promiscuously but all that was taken were candles. The general belief at that place is that the man who entered the store of Weatherford & Co. have gone south and paid that store a call for the purpose of supplying themselves with provisions. Some crackers were found on the railroad south of Turner's.

By letter from Salem we learn that an attempt was made to rob Wells, Fargo & Co.'s Express Office at that place on last Saturday night. The would-be robbers were discovered by the police, who fired two shots at them but failed to bring them to a halt and they escaped. It is supposed that the parties attempting the deed are the same who successfully raided on Weatherford & Co.'s drug-store at that place the previous night.

The following resolution was passed by the Agricultural and Wool Growers' Association, of Roseburg, on the 12th. It was resolved: "That this Association are in favor of calling a State Convention to meet at Salem at an early day to nominate a candidate for Congress, the nomination to be made without regard to party, and the nominee to be one who is opposed to monopoly and in favor of promoting the agricultural interests of Oregon."

The Forest Grove Independent says: "One night last week a man, no doubt feeling the pressure of the hard times, entered Mr. P. S. Field's residence and took $40 out of Mr. F.'s pocket. The gentleman not being satisfied with making a raise of $40, concluded to continue operations, so he entered the sleeping apartment of Mr. Horner. He found out that Al. felt the pressure of the hard times, too, as he only had 50 cents. The fellow's conscientious scruples would not allow him to divide, or else he couldn't make the change, so he took it all."

A letter dated Baker City, July 16th says: "We have had a heavy fall of rain during the past two days. This morning, fine and fair. Our town is full of strangers, gambling, whisky drinking and free fights the order of the day. The ball opened this morning with a saloon fight in which one man received severe injuries about the head, the effects of too free and rapid circulation of pony glasses. One arrest was made and quiet restored. Nothing but horse, horse on every side and from appearances, considerable money will change hands at the coming race to-morrow. Buckskin is rather the favorite but the "mare" will be full jolly for him."

E. S. Altree, Jr., has completed arrangements for the speedy erection of a flouring mill a few miles above Elk City, on the Yaquina river. He will at once proceed to build a dam at the head of tide water, and complete the mill this fall, or, at farthest, before next harvest. He has visited the Siletz Agency, and found that next year at least 20,000 bushels of wheat will be raised on the agency. Every farmer near Elk will raise from 1,000 to 1,500 bushels, and a mill in that neighborhood will prove of vast interest to that section of country. At present the settlers along the Yaquina river are compelled to haul their flour from King's Valley, a distance of 40 miles.

The Plaindealer says: "Among the sources of wealth in this county as yet undeveloped, coal is by no means the least. MONDAY MORNING, JULY 21, 1873.

THE TAXATION OF CORPORATE PROPERTY.

Prominent among the important questions arising out of the conflict between the people and corporate capital, is that of the taxation of the property of corporations. This is a natural incident to the struggle of labor to cast the burdens of supporting the Government, as far as possible upon the capital operating in the country, on the one hand, and the efforts of capital to secure immunity from taxation on the other. In various ways it has been attempted to subject the corporations to assessment far beyond the actual value of their corporate property, as, for instance, by the assessment of their nominal stock at its par value, when the actual property represented by the concern does not exceed one half or one hundredth of that par value. The absurdity of this could be illustrated by reference to a railway corporation having its headquarters at Portland. Every one can call to mind a company organized here for the construction of a railway to Salt Lake—an enterprise, by the way, that would be of immense benefit to Oregon—and which, of course, must have have as a basis upon which to carry on such a gigantic enterprise, a capital of some millions of dollars par value. and yet everyone knows that this stock at present represents just nothing at all in the way of actual property. Should it succeed in raising the necessary funds and constructing the road, the stock would then represent the road. In other words the stock of these companies,, whatever may be its nominal, or par value, does in fact represent exactly so much property as the company owns, not a dollar more nor less. The assessment of a corporation for the purposes of taxation, should therefore be made on the basis, not of its nominal stock, but of the actual property it possesses.

And this leads to another matter which deserves attention. In taking a schedule of the taxable property of individuals, the assessor requires a statement of all stocks in corporation. Let us assume that this stock is assessed upon the basis of its value being according to the property it represents, which, as shown above is the only fair way to assess corporate property. There is still a double assessment unless the corporation, as a body, is left wholly unassessed. An individual for instance owns one hundred shares of stock in the Odd Fellows' Hall Association, this stock represents $8,000 worth of property; that is, if the entire property of the corporation were divided amongst its stockholders the person holding the hundred shares would be entitled to $8,000 worth of it. In this fact, and this alone, consists the value of the stock; without this fact it would be worthless; the one hundred certificates draw to their owner the rents and profits of $8,000 of the property of the company, and making him, for all practical purposes, the owner of that $8,000. He is consequently assessed for a tax upon $8,000. But the corporate body is also assessed upon its entire property, as well this $8,000 as the rest. When the Company pays the tax thus assessed, it by so doing diminishes the moneys on hand which belong to the stockholders in exact proportion to their respective amounts of stock. In other words the corporation uses of the money of each stockholder, enough to pay the tax on his part of the corporate property.

The tax-gatherer having thus gotten the tax levied upon the corporate property directly, proceeds next to the individual stockholder in whose hands this same $8,000 worth of property has been assessed as stock, and collects the tax thereon from him. Thus, assuming the list to have been honestly given in the tax-payer—pays upon the property twice.

The shifts and expedients of capital to avoid taxation can not justify this double assessment. If the defect is not in the law itself, the State Board of Equalization should provide against such injustice in their rules, and if the law itself is so defective as to require such an assessment, it ought to be amended at the earliest possible moment.

Since Mr. Matt. Carpenter's courageous lecture on Larceny as one of the Fine Arts, several timorous Congressmen have arrayed themselves under the banner of the valorous Senator. The latest is Mr. James C. Robinson, Congressman from Illinois. This gentleman chose the Fourth of July as a day suitable for an account of his stewardship. His acceptance of a share of the salary grab was the inspiring theme. The line of defense was something like this: There are in my district six counties. My salary, back-pay and all, divided among them, amounts to $1,250 each. Does not each county treasurer receive more than this? And am I not worth to each county as much as its county treasurer? Perhaps Mr. Robinson could get a decisive answer by submitting his plaintive inquiries to a popular vote of each of the six counties. According to the Robinsonian scheme for gauging the services of representatives, our Congressman from Oregon would receive a salary something like twelve or fourteen thousand dollars. If this is to be the scale of Congressional appraisement, look out for the next grab.

"A passenger by the City of Washington" writes a long letter to the N. Y. Herald of the 9th, descriptive of the wreck of that vessel. We notice the following paragraph: "What was to be done with the hundreds of poor Irish women lying on the beach under the banks and big rocks? Here was an opportunity for Colonel Parnell, of the United States Cavalry, from Camp Harney, Oregon, to come forward; and nobly he did so. This gentleman, as calm and polite in peace as he is gallant in war, went round and induced several women to go up to the back barns and cattle sheds; and dispatched whole gangs of them under me to house them and build fires for them. Many a poor creature went to sleep at night blessing Colonel Parnell. I am sorry to say that I did not see one single other cabin male passenger exerting himself in the slightest to assist the poor creatures."

After a struggle of more than a year, the City Council of Cleveland, Ohio, has adopted an ordinance to close liquor saloons on the Sabbath. Local papers say that considerable interest is felt in the matter. Similar ordinances have been adopted on two former occasions, and in both instances they have been treated as a dead letter, after brief and ineffectual efforts to enforce them.

FULL PARTICULARS OF THE DEATH OF HON. J. G. WILSON.

Through the kindness of Hon. J. W. Nesmith, to whom the late Congressman Wilson was nearly related, we have been handed a letter from Miss Harriet Wilson, a sister to Judge Wilson, written to a member of the family, giving some particulars relative to his death not heretofore published.

Judge Wilson had been so much out of health for some time that his family had been very solicitous about the result. His sister says, speaking of the arrival of the news of his death, "though we knew he was in a very dangerous situation, and we feared the result, yet the blow came with such terrible suddenness as almost to overwhelm us. He had been in so much better spirits, and wrote so cheerfully, that we thought him surely improving. He wrote on Friday that his address for the Alumni was almost done."

His wife went with him to Marietta, leaving their children at home in Georgetown. "He reached Marietta on Tuesday morning, the day before the commencement exercises were to take place, where he found many warm friends—friends he had known when he was a student there—waiting to welcome him, and from all accounts never was in better spirits in his life. Went to college exercises in the afternoon, saw many friends and talked much, and so continued, seeing and conversing with his friends till 11 o'clock in the evening, when Mr. Iams at whose house he was stopping, noticed that he looked very tired and told him he must go to bed and rest. Lizzie [Mrs. Wilson] had already retired, suffering from a headache. He got up, passed through the library and into his sleeping room. Making some remarks about the gas and about winding up his watch, he started to go into the bath-room adjacent. Just then he made a peculiar noise, which so startled Mrs. Wilson that she sprang up and ran to him. He had not yet fallen and she caught him but was unable to sustain him, and he fell to the floor. She says she knew somehow that he was dying the moment she took hold of him, and she instantly called Mr. and Mrs. Iams, who were just across the hall. Mr. Layman, Joe's old room-mate was there and a physician was called in a few moments, and everything done that it was possible to do, but all in vain. He vomited a good deal. He seemed to realize that it was death, and tried very hard to speak, and did speak some half-uttered sentences at first, but very few and hard to understand.

It was a fearful shock to all, coming under peculiar circumstances; but never was a family kinder than the friends with whom he was stopping. With every facility, they did all for him that they could have done for a brother, and so did the Alumni.

The funeral took place from the house, and was attended by a very large concourse of citizens. Everything was conducted in the quietest manner. The remains were in a casket, and looked through the plate glass as if he were asleep. Beautiful flowers arranged in a cross and wreath decorated the casket. Nothing that loving thoughtfulness could suggest was left undone, in paying the last rites to him. The whole town seemed in gloom, and the Alumni exercises were changed into a memorial meeting. The address he had prepared was read and it was resolved to have it printed in pamphlet form for distribution among his friends.

We should have desired to have him lie at Spring Grove, but he had said on the day of his death, that where he fell, there he wanted to lie. Almost the last thing he said to Lizzie was that they "must go out and look at the cemetery for it is so very beautiful.' So we thought it most appropriate to let him rest there."

Mrs. Wilson, the letter says, sustains her affliction most of the time with great fortitude, but at others seems almost unable to bear up under it. She and the children will remain for a while at Georgetown, but she thinks she must finally return to Oregon.

STILL AFTER THE NEGRO.

The Roseburg Plaindealer still sticks to the ancient faith of its party, and denounces the investing of the colored people with the rights of citizenship. After calling attention to the fact mentioned some time since in the OREGONIAN of a number of colored persons having been challenged from the jury in New Orleans recently for want of sufficient information to sit as jurors, the Plaindealer thus comments upon the occurrence:

> These are but a fair sample of the people upon whom the OREGONIAN, in company with other Republican papers so earnestly labored to confer the elective franchise. After years of trial they are still found to be densely, stupidly and invincibly ignorant. They are a burthen upon the intelligence of the country. They have reduced the standard of citizenship, and therefore impaired the vitality of the Republic, whose existence depends upon the wisdom and honesty of its voters; they have been bought and sold at the polls like the cheapest articles of merchandise, and in fact have done infinite mischief wherever they predominate. The confusion which has prevailed in many of the Southern States, and which now exists in Louisiana is attributable to the ignorance of this class and the corruption of Federal officials, by whom they have been directed. But we must remember that "the colored troops fought nobly," for of such is the kingdom of Grant.

This shows that the Plaindealer has the courage to be consistent, if not the moderation to be just. It is still pursuing the negro after the old Democratic style. It is evidently of the opinion that there ought to be a political party with "neither variableness nor shadow of turning," nor any progress no matter how the world may move along. If we cannot indorse the views of our friend of the Plaindealer, we can conscientiously commend his constancy.

The OREGONIAN cannot see in the fact that a few colored men were found incompetent for jurors, any very conclusive evidence of the justness of the bitter denunciation heaped upon them by the Plaindealer. It would be a most remarkable fact if none of this long oppressed and down-trodden race were found too ignorant for jurymen, when so many of the race that has trampled upon them and enjoyed all the advantages of a hundred generations of freedom, are still so low in the intellectual scale. Nor can we see that the ignorance of those men who were challenged off the jury has done such great harm, since they did not sit in the trial of the cause. Doubtless they were replaced by men of the same race who were competent; and it is fair to presume similar precautions will be observed in other cases. The question of the selection of good jurors, is one of intelligence and honesty in the officers of the court, not one of race.

And as to the buying and selling of the votes of those people, all the editor of the Plaindealer has to do to be convinced that this evil is not peculiar to the colored people, is to come to Portland, watch the manipulations of voters, in any spirited contest here. Pure-blooded Caucasians—thorough-breds for aught we know—with skins of the most unexceptionable tint, are bought here by the squad on election days, and that too at discouragingly low rates. So far as we have been able to ascertain the facts, no race or color has failed to furnish its quota of votes for sale, when bidding has been anything like spirited. This is a fearful fact, we admit, and one that bodes no good to the country; but they who seek the remedy in the disfranchisement of the colored race, would find, could they accomplish the proposed disfranchisement, that they had simply done an injustice to a weak and helpless people, without effecting the ulterior beneficial object.

Yes, the colored troops did fight nobly; and is not that the true secret of our Democratic neighbor's opposition to their having the rights of citizenship. At all events, does not the recollection of that fact gall our neighbor a little?

Dr. Charles T. Jackson, the eminent chemist of Boston, whose illness has been mentioned in our dispatches, has been removed to the insane asylum at Somerville, Mass. Dr. Jackson is known as one of the most thorough analytic chemists in this country. He will be remembered as the expert in the famous trial of Prof. Webster, for the murder of Dr. Parkman.

The Government of Mexico declines to enforce the edict for the expulsion of foreigners which was promulgated a short time since. Probably the fact that internal improvements, as well as every scheme for the development of the material resources of Mexico, are prosecuted by foreigners, with foreign capital, is duly appreciated by the enlightened Tejada.

FINISHED.—After a long time and the expending of much labor, North Thirteenth street to the intersection of G, has been finished. A good roadway is now opened through to the lower sawmill below the city, much to the convenience of the public.

Indian Agent, Capt. John Smith, having successfully prosecuted sundry individuals in the U. S. Court for selling liquor to Indians on Warm Spring Reservation, returns home this morning.

CITY.

Turn Verein.—On Saturday evening the new hall of the Turn Verein was thrown open to the public for the first time. The hall is situated on the third floor of Ankeny's Central Market building, facing First street. The size of the room is 58x37 feet. Over the entrance is constructed a gallery which extends the entire length of the hall, and having a width of seven feet, affording seating and standing room for fully one hundred persons. Beneath the gallery are set apart a library room, bathing apartment, properties, wardrobe and closets. For exercises the society have had constructed horizontal and parallel bars, trapeze, flying rings, ladders, climbing and swinging poles,—the latter a new idea, springing board, dumb bells, clubs and other means of affording members facilities for practice. The fitting up of the hall has been done in a most substantial manner, and reflects credit on those who performed the work. The walls are decorated with framed pictures, illustrating the various attitudes assumed by persons performing gymnastic feats, besides pictures of different subjects suggestive for a place of this character. The construction of the different paraphernalia is so arranged that they can be raised out of the way in case the Society should require the floor cleared for dancing purposes. In fact nothing is left undone to make the hall for the purposes intended complete in every particular. The Society number at the present time seventy-four members besides a class of thirty boys, who are learning the gymnastic art. Regular meetings are held twice a month, Tuesday and Saturday evenings being set apart for [illegible] practice, and Wednesdays and Sundays the singing section socialize. A debating club will be fully organized soon, and other features will be introduced in time.

Fire Safes.—In company with Mr. Wm. B. Wilshire, we called last Saturday at Knapp, Burrell & Co.'s to examine a number of Hall's Patent Fire Proof Safes which are on exhibition there. These safes are elegantly finished both inside and out, and are perfect models of fine mechanism. Hall's Safe and Lock Company was established nearly a quarter of a century ago at Cincinnati, the first patent on the safes being issued in 1849. The safes on exhibition in the city are only intended to be fire proof; but the Company in which Mr. Wilshire is interested have safes for sale not only proof against heat, but that are absolutely proof and bulwark against the most insinuating "Jimmy" known to the burglarizing fraternity. All the Hall's safes are surrounded with a thick layer of hydraulic cement impervious to heat, and which prevents books and papers kept on [illegible] from moulding. The superiority of [illegible] commends their general sale and use. Since the establishment of a branch house in San Francisco, not more than four months ago, 107 of these safes have been sold in California to many of the leading bankers and [illegible] and county officials of that State. One great advantage possessed by these safes is that no key is used in opening them, and no opportunity is offered for the introduction of powder or any other explosive material.

A Great Improvement.—For years past—in fact, ever since the Canyon road was first [illegible] it has been a source of dread to farmers and others who have had occasion to travel over it. The road was first opened over a most [illegible] stretch of country. The natural [illegible] in the way was the precipitous [illegible] of the country. Here the road [illegible] the side of some rocky declivity, [illegible] a yawning chasm. Add to the rugged and uneven character of the ground was the heavy timber which covered [illegible], and rendered progress much [illegible] and augmented the labor [illegible] a passable wagon road. Thus it has [illegible] for many years past. Each [illegible] more or less work has been [illegible] on the Canyon road, and each year it has [illegible]. This season an unusual amount of work has been expended, and the road has shown the [illegible] most unmistakably. Those who have occasion to drive over the road will be very agreeably disappointed to find it as good a road to travel as can be found in the country, when the nature of the section through which the road leads is considered.

Ruralizing.—A friend at Clatsop favors us with a few notes from that favorite spot, where [illegible] that can find the spare time, seek to while away the dull hours in enjoyment of a [illegible]. "Among the late arrivals, are Philip W[illegible] and family, B. Gold[illegible] family, George Hoyt and family, C. H. Lewis and family, Mrs. George L. [illegible] and family, Mrs. D. W. Burnside and family, Mrs. T. A. Savier and family, Senator Mitchell and family, Put Smith and family, Carl Bean, Charles Kohn, Samuel Lowenstein and others. J. [illegible] Denny is a guest of Ben Holladay at the [illegible] cottage of the latter near the Seaside House. New faces appear daily, and the [illegible] of families, whose business calls them to the city, retire, regretting the necessity of leaving this pleasant place. Charley Dexter has [illegible] himself a most popular man by his careful attention to the wants of his patrons of the [illegible] House. Will write again in a few days."

An Old Willow.—More than 22 years ago some enterprising pioneer, who was not destitute of sentiment or poetry, planted a slender twig of the mournful weeping willow on a spot of ground now included in the present Poor Farm. Years came and went, and the changeful seasons followed each other in quick succession, and the little twig waxed and grew until it attained tree-like proportions. The humble cabin [illegible] which it was planted long since yielded to the ravages of time, and has [illegible] away, not even a vestige remaining. Last year the top of [illegible] branches were injured to such an extent that most of them were [illegible] off. The old but vigorous trunk still [illegible], and is sending out hundreds of tender [illegible] branches, many of which droop almost to the earth. The body of the tree is fully fifteen inches in diameter, and bids fair to live and thrive for the next twenty years [illegible]

A Prolific Lily.—In the production of [illegible] floral specimens Portland deserves [illegible] first rank. Some days ago a very extraordinary growth of the Golden Banded Lily (Lilium Auratum) was developed in the yard of Mr. J. B. Congle. This plant was for the time being a wonder among the florists of the city, in that it displayed twenty-three large distinct [illegible]. But scarcely had this seven-day wonder ceased, before a still greater and more prolific development took place in the [illegible] of Mr. Richard Knapp. This growth belongs to the same family of flowering plants, and has produced seventy-two flowers. Another Golden Banded Lily owned by the same gentleman, displays forty-three blossoms. Among experienced florists, these developments are regarded as wonderful instances of floral fecundity. Who can surpass the above in this State or anywhere else?

Passengers Coming.—The steamer John L. Stephens sailed from San Francisco for Portland on Saturday, July 19th, with the following list of passengers: Col. E. E. Rice, O. Wolfson, Mrs. E. F. Rockwell, M. Cavey, J. L. Hensley, C. W. Buschen, J. H. Lambert and wife, Capt. A. Barra, John Hill, Julius Kraemer, C. S. [illegible], F. Drew, Miss E. Denthir, Miss L. [illegible], W. J. Marcus, J. Proctor, A. E. Webb, Geo. A. Hughes, B. Levy, Wm. W. Davenport, Geo. Heath, J. L. Heath, Henry Bassett, Miss C. Bassett, Mrs. M. Fields, R. Ackley, wife and two sons, J. T. Banta, A. N. Banta, Dr. F. S. Stirling, U. S. A., wife and child, Mrs. E. Dillon and daughter, Mrs. S. E. Reynolds.

In Port Yesterday.—Steamers Emma Hayward, Dixie Thompson, Shoshone, Vancouver, Oneatta, Governor Grover, Minnehaha, Rescue, Onconta, Okanagan, Wenat—four latter at the [illegible]; ships Confidence, Middlesex, barks [illegible], Hermine, Edward James and sloop W. H. Twilight.

Will Sail.—The British bark Hermine having completed her cargo of wheat for Europe, will go down the river to-day. This vessel has had quick dispatch for her destination, having been on the berth but a few days.

On Exhibition.—A small block of lime stone, from a quarry near Oakland, which is being used in construction of the State Capitol, is on exhibition at the National Bank.

Daily Express.—Wells, Fargo & Co. now run a daily express to Astoria. An express is sent up the valley on the morning and evening trains.

LOCAL BREVITIES.

Two excursions yesterday.

John L. Stephens on the way.

For a good cup of coffee go to Fabre's.

Daily supplies from the beach at Quinn's.

The steamer Gussie Telfair, from the Sound, is due this evening.

The women pretend that they are in need of suffrage, but they would be content with an eye in the back of their head.

The masonry work on Parrish's and Corbett's buildings has reached the second floor and sleepers are being laid thereon.

The sloop W. H. Twilight from Astoria, arrived on Saturday with a quantity of salmon. She will take a return cargo of general merchandise in a few days.

The elegant chandeliers have been placed in position in the Progress Club rooms and the carpets will be laid to-day. The club has at present a membership of forty persons.

If there is a man in town who holds ticket, number 5,630, in the Louisville Lottery, he can get $50,000 by sending it to ——, but, we are very much afraid, the man aint in town.

One of the most desirable sights in this life, is a young man with a pair of rubbers on his feet, an oil-skin hat cover in his pocket, and an umbrella under his arm, singing "Rocked in the cradle of the Deep."

Dr. Hostetter, of the firm of Hostetter & Smith, who have shown their usual good sense by being constant advertisers in the Oregonian, recently offered $750,000 for the Allegheny (Pa.) Gas Works. When asked by the President of the Councils of that city, if he could pay for them, he curtly replied, "I'll attend to that."

Considerable amusement was afforded those who participated in the opening of Market Hall on Saturday evening, occasioned by the discovery of a pair of strings to which was attached a bundle of papers. Judging from the amount of laughter and the remarks made, we were led to believe that the suspicious bundle was nothing more nor less than a bustle. The proprietor of the lost article sought a more quiet locality about that time.

July 9—At Philadelphia, Boston, 17; Philadelphias, 18. At New York, Philadelphias, 11; Atlantic, 2.

The Pacific Club returned yesterday afternoon from Lafayette, where they had been playing the Forest City Club a series of games.

Saturday morning the first game was played, the Forest City's winning by a score of 38 to 30. Al. Sutherland of the Pioneer Club umpired. The second game was played in the afternoon, the Pacifics scoring 40 to 27 of their competitors, umpired by J. Kraemer of the Monmouth Club. The Pacific nine consisted of Matthews, c.; Oliver, p.; Austin, s.s.; Bell, 1st b.; Al. Raleigh, 2d b.; Cushing, l.f.; Strong, c.f.; Yates, r.f. The Forest City nine were: Large, 3.; Al. Snyder, p.; Hendricks, s.s.; Fenton, 1st b.; Huston, 2d b.; J. Hulery, 3d b.; G. Hulery, l.f.; Nelson, c.f.; Mays, r.f. John Raleigh scored for the Pacific and Al. Carey for the Forest City. It will be seen that the total stood 70 to 65 in favor of the Pacific Club, and therefore they have no cause to complain. The third and deciding game will be played in September probably. Not having the score book we are unable to give a complete description of the contests.

DRAMATICAL AND MUSICAL.

Mr. and Mrs. F. M. Bates are in Australia.

The Rosedale Dramatic Troupe, composed of Robert Fulford, the Pixleys and others, were at Yreka, California, a few days ago, bound northward.

Stephen Maybell recited "Molly Muldoon," and M'lle Marie Gaugain executed a dance at the benefit of Owen Marlone at the California Theater on the 16th inst.

Madame Anna Bishop is now in San Francisco accompanied by a first-class operatic company. A brief season opened there last week. We learn that arrangements have been effected between Mr. G. L. De Prans, of this city, and Madame Bishop, by which the troupe will visit Portland in a few weeks. Three or more concerts will be given. Among the talented vocalists besides Madame Bishop is the celebrated Baritone, Signor Gottschalk. Frank Gilder, the famous pianist, is included in the troupe. This troupe will probably sail for Portland on next Saturday's steamer.

PERSONAL.

FINALLY DECIDED.

It is an old but true saying that a man is known by the books he reads and the company he keeps. This saying is illustrative of the great sewing machine war, in which nearly all the second-class machines have played prominent parts, expending much ammunition and making forced marches attended with great loss. But our readers have not seen the name of the world renowned Grover & Baker Sewing Machine flourished before the people in the above connection, and this dignified reserve has established the popularity of the Grover & Baker Sewing Machine, now and forever. It stands on its respectability and merits. These machines make the Elastic Stitch and Shuttle Stitch, and will be sold on installments of $10 per month. W. T. Shanahan, agent, 71 First street.

Money saved by making your purchases at the opposition boot and shoe store under the Oro Fino Theater. There is no disputing this.

Some people may become excited over the "terminus" of the Northern Pacific Railroad, on Puget Sound, but it does not disturb Beck & Waldman, corner Front and Washington streets, in the least, as they intend to pursue the usual course to their customers, and that is to sell goods at prices which will enable those with limited means to provide themselves with good clothing at a very small outlay of money. Parents should bring their children to this house for neat-fitting suits.

Why linger in blissful ignorance? Why do you wander about seeking a place where they keep the largest and finest stock of Summer Clothing? Why pay high prices for goods when the fact has been long established that the great firm of J. KOHN & Co., 91 Front street, sell Clothing and Gents' Furnishing Goods so cheap? They keep the best, they sell the cheapest, and what more can be asked?

A Neglected Cough, Cold, Sore Throat, which might be checked by a simple remedy, like "Brown's Bronchial Troches," if allowed to progress may terminate seriously.

It is no Fiction.—Dr. Wistar's Balsam of Wild Cherry has cured and is now curing thousands of sufferers from that terrible disease, consumption. Do not hesitate a moment, but provide yourself with this cure, which has had an enviable reputation for nearly half a century.

THE COUNTY POOR FARM.

A VISIT TO THE COUNTY POOR HOUSE—THE MANNER IN WHICH IT IS KEPT—GENERAL DESCRIPTION OF THE INSTITUTION.

Availing of an invitation extended by the County Commissioners, we paid an inspecting visit on Saturday to the County Poor House and Farm, for the purpose of examining for ourselves the condition of that institution, and to ascertain the manner in which the several departments are administered.

The Poor Farm, as it is generally designated, is situated about two and a half miles from the city limits on the Canyon Road leading directly west. This farm consists of 160 acres of land which were purchased some years ago by the County, for the express purpose of establishing a home or a temporary refuge where indigent and diseased persons could be provided for.

A brisk drive of twenty-five minutes from the city brought us to the Farm. The house is situated on the north side and about 100 yards from the road. It occupies a high point of land overlooking a long stretch of the winding road, and a commanding view of the wooded hills which surround the locality. A more eligible and pleasant site could hardly have been selected. One glance at the neat and handsome building with its fresh coat of paint, as it stands on an elevated point of land, surrounded by green gardens and a fruitful orchard, at once invites the eye and pleases the fancy. These agreeably pleasant surroundings are well calculated to instantly dispel all ideas of gloom, want, disease and sadness, which even the name of the place would cause one to naturally associate in the mind. Entering the gate to the right hand side of the road we passed through a narrow lane leading up to the house. On one side was a meadow, at this time covered with a light coat of timothy, and on the other rows of green and luxuriant vegetables that appeared to thrive exceedingly well in the fertile soil. In a few minutes we arrived at the house. If one is agreeably surprised at a cursory glance at the houses, gardens and the general arrangement of the institution, a closer inspection of the premises is likely to impress the visitor with greater favor. Neatness and a very creditable degree of good taste meets the eye at every turn.

GENERAL DESCRIPTION.

Until within the last two years, the Poor House was a very unpretentious structure, and entirely inadequate in many respects to meet the requirements of the unfortunate inmates. Three years ago the building was only about 60x20 feet and two stories high. At that time the institution was conducted with less system than at the present, and less care and responsibility attached to the general management of affairs. Admission to the Poor House was then gained with far less difficulty, and as a natural consequence of this state of affairs the institution was greatly overstocked by inmates, many of whom were not entitled to enjoy the benefit of such public charities. This fact in connection with the meager dimensions of the building, and the general deficiency of facilities to minister to the comfort and necessities of the sick and indigent, rendered the institution unpopular, and doubtless gave rise to many complaints, which, whether attributable to the Superintendent, or the county authorities, or to both, combined to bring the Poor House into a degree of disrepute not flattering to the pride of the county. For want of room the building was frequently crowded to overflowing. For want of accommodations, in many instances inmates were overlooked in a measure, and of necessity neglected. Then there existed in every department so many deficiencies, that the sanitary conditions of the institution could not be observed or strictly enforced. Dirt and filth would naturally accumulate among the inmates, and personal cleanliness was a feature almost wholly overlooked. To indicate the extent of such deficiencies we learn that not even baths—so indispensably necessary to personal cleanliness, and to promote health among the inmates—were used in connection with the institution until within the last year and a half.

Acting upon urgent representations, the county authorities about two years ago determined to erect a larger building and augment the facilities for comfort and cleanliness in proportion to such structure. Plans were accordingly drawn up and the contract for a larger building let. Last summer the new building was completed and ready for the reception of inmates. Two small houses, which had heretofore answered the purposes of a Poor House, were added to the new building in the form of wings. As the Poor House now stands its dimensions are as follows; Size of the main building, 30x65 feet; size of each wing, 30x60 feet. Each of the wings and the main building are two stories high. Throughout, the house is constructed in a very neat, plain and substantial manner. The interior is ceiled with planed lumber to render the rooms warm and tight, and painted. The floors are oiled and painted, and possess a surface as polished and smooth as glass. Each of the wings are laid off into wards, and are used principally by the inmates, while the main building is used as a kitchen, reading room, pantries, etc. All the rooms are large and airy, and present a neat, tidy appearance. Regularly once or twice a week the floors are washed and are thus kept scrupulously white and polished.

A number of large windows open from all sides of the building, admitting floods of light, which contribute very materially in imparting a cheerful aspect to the interior. When not too cool, these windows are kept wide open, which admits of abundant ventilation. Light, and the fresh and delicious air circulates freely and unobstructedly to every nook and corner of the building. At the time the important addition to the house was made, a small bath house was attached to each side of the wing, with all necessary fixtures for enjoying the luxury of a tepid or cold bath. This was one of the most essential additions. A bath can thus be indulged in by the inmates as often as may be desirable, an opportunity, which the superintendent informed us, is not neglected by them. In each ward as many beds are placed as may be deemed necessary. There being at present but a few inmates, they are uniformly distributed in the several wards.

ARRANGEMENTS AND FACILITIES.

Nothing which can contribute to the comfort of the inmates, minister to their wants or add to the general safety of the institution has, so far as we were able to discern, been neglected or omitted. Water, of the best quality, and in profuse abundance, is obtained and distributed through the building. A lead pipe, leading from the house to a spring of pure cold water, situated some distance away, supplies the institution with an abundance of that necessary element. The spring is located several hundred yards from the house on rising ground, and affords sufficient fall to force the water higher than the building. A reservoir is placed in the upper story, into which the water is led, and from thence distributed through the house. In the yard a cistern has been placed containing about 500 barrels of water. A large force pump is attached, and also 100 feet of hose, which can be brought into requisition at a moment's notice in the event of fire. Attached to the large range in the kitchen is a heater of sufficient capacity to furnish plenty of hot water, either for cooking or bathing purposes. But a few rods from the main house a large wood shed was erected last fall 30x60 feet, of sufficient size to hold 100 cords of wood. A barn of sufficient capacity to hold all the hay and grain which may be raised on the farm, was erected some time ago on the rising ground north of the house. At present, about 40 acres of the land belonging to the Poor Farm is under fence. Of this, from 8 to 10 acres are under subjection to the plow. This number of acres includes the garden, orchard and oat crop. Several acres of new land were broken up last winter and are now producing a fair yield of oats. A portion of the land fenced in was sown, some time ago, with grass-seed, and affords excellent pasturage for the horses and cows that belong to the institution. Four splendid milch cows belong to the farm, and not only furnish all the milk required by the inmates, but also the butter. In addition to a span of horses, a light and heavy wagon required to perform farm service, the institution possesses a number of hogs and young cattle. About 100 bearing apple trees constitute the orchard. These trees are all thrifty appearing and very fruitful. Last year the orchard yielded 400 bushels of marketable apples, and the yield this season will be equal to that of the past. The garden is a perfect model of neatness, order and thrift. By the use of a small percentage of compost, the soil, naturally fertile, produces vegetables of all kinds in profusion. Peas, beans, corn, potatoes and esculents are cultivated with marked success, and furnish an abundance of this kind of diet to the inmates. This season the yield of hay will be ample to furnish provender for the stock the coming winter. In clearing away a piece of timbered land, about 100 cords of wood have been cut, which will not be required for fuel on the farm, and can be sold to the county or private parties, and thus contribute several hundred dollars toward the self-maintenance of the institution.

THE READING ROOM.

While the object of the Poor House is more especially designed to provide the physical body with food and raiment, and to build up and fortify the system against the inroads of disease, yet the mental and moral faculties of the unfortunate inmates have not been overlooked. Attached to the building is the "Reading Room," which is provided with a small library and quite a number of the periodicals of the day. The library contains 100 volumes, principally of a moral and religious character. This donation of books, we are gratified to note, was made some time ago by a number of benevolent persons who belong to the First Unitarian Church. The donation was solicited by Rev. Mr. Eliot, who has manifested a truly commendable interest in the moral and spiritual welfare of the inmates. Through the liberal and benevolent contributions made by various parties, a number of Eastern journals, periodicals, etc., have been suscribed for and sent to the institution. Limited and meager as are the present facilities for the improvement of the minds and morals of the inmates, it is hoped, and not without good reason, that in the course of a year large accessions will be made to the present nucleus of a library.

RELIGIOUS SERVICES

Are held nearly every Sunday in the reading room by a number of the pastors of this city. No distinctions are made as to creed or denomination. Any minister belonging to the different denominations who may desire to preach to the inmates, or hold religious services, is always cheerfully welcomed.

The otherwise bare and cheerless appearance of the walls of the reading room are relieved by the presence of a number of handsome pictures, which were likewise charitable donations. A center table covered with books and papers, and a number of seats, have been added to the room, enhancing its cheerful, home-like appearance, and contributing to the comfort of all concerned.

CONCLUSION.

At the present writing there are only ten inmates. During the past year the general average has been 12. From July 1st, 1872, to July 1st, 1873, there have been only 60 admissions to the Poor House. This showing indicates an absence of want, disease and pauperism not often met with in a district equal in extent to Multnomah county, and possessing the same population.

With a continuance of the same frugal, judicious and careful administration of the affairs of the Poor House, as evinced in every department, we feel justified in the assertion that unless there is an extraordinary and unprecedently large increase of pauperism, this institution can and will be made almost wholly self-sustaining in a few years to come. As it is kept at present, the institution is a credit to our county and city. Mr. Robert Cleghorn, the present Superintendent certainly deserves much commendation for the efficient and judicious manner in which he presides over the institution.

Dr. Helmbold, the originator of Buchu, has the satisfaction of knowing that all his imitators have failed to produce the benefits his preparation insures. Helmbold's Ext. Buchu Cures. The others disappoint. Persons suffering from Kidney Complaint, Gravel, Premature Decay, Loss of Vigor or any souvenir of Indiscretion, cannot apply the remedy too soon. The great point is to get the genuine Buchu Extract which is Helmbold's and no other.

Substitutes in the Dental Ranks are not desirable; therefore keep the natural teeth sound and pure with that wholesome vegetable elixir Sozodont. Do this and they will last as long as the breath lasts, and the breath itself will never be tainted. 25

A fact worth remembering—Five cents' worth of Sheridan's Cavalry Condition Powders, given to a horse twice a week, will save double that amount in grain, and the horse will be fatter, sleeker, and every way worth more money than though he did not have them.

Importance of Healthy Blood.

Every drop of blood that circulates through the veins eventually becomes a solid particle of the body. Flesh, bone and muscle are merely solidified blood, and upon the quality of the blood depends the condition of the whole physical system. Unless the liquid material by which the human substance is renewed and sustained is pure and nutritious it is impossible that the body can be healthy and strong. One of the most important properties of Hostetter's Stomach Bitters is that of improving the condition of the vital fluid when infected or impoverished. Acting directly and powerfully upon the stomach, in which the manufacture of the blood is commenced, and upon the liver which secretes a fluid next in importance to the stream of life itself, this powerful vegetable tonic and depurent has an immense indirect influence upon the circulation. Hence the extraordinary cures wrought by the Bitters in cases of general debility, malarious fevers, rheumatism, biliousness, constipation, &c.

Agricultural, Grazing and Timber Lands,

Passing from Eugene City, (125 miles from Portland by Railroad), through the splendid "Lake Country," to Silver City, near the border of Idaho.

Each share of the PACIFIC LAND COMPANY thus representing now over 160 acres of land, and is UNASSESSABLE.

Three thousand shares belong to the Company, and will be offered for sale by us, the entire proceeds of which will go into the Treasury.

The first one thousand shares will be offered at $120 per share, United States Currency, equal to the rate of 75 cents per acre. Every share will also be received at its par value of $210 in payment for land, as soon as the appraisals are made. Such shares will then be cancelled, and not reissued, and a deed given to the purchaser.

The land will be appraised at moderate rates, in accordance with its actual value, as soon as practicable, in sections of 640 acres, and at not less than $1 50 per acre, U. S. Currency, and offered for sale. Actual settlers, however, always having preference.

We refer, as to the character of this magnificent grant of land, to CLARENCE KING, Esq., the U. S. Geologist for this coast, who is familiar with it from personal observation; also to the elaborate report of the Hon. B. J. Pengra, late Surveyor General of Oregon, on this road and lands, from which we quote: "There is but very little of the entire grant but what is valuable for either Farming, Grazing or Lumbering purposes."

As shares are cancelled, the average of acres to the remaining shares will naturally increase, and from cash sales dividends will be declared.

IMMIGRANTS,
BY BUYING THESE SHARES, CAN SECURE GOOD LANDS, WITH PERFECT TITLE, AT LESS THAN GOVERNMENT RATES.

For Custodians of Trust Funds, the shares of the PACIFIC LAND COMPANY combine absolute security, based on the lands, with promise of large returns; and no investment can be better for CHILDREN, as the value of the property must increase immensely in a few years.

COLEMAN'S EUCALYPTUS

Dr. J. S. Coleman's Compound Extract of Eucalyptus is a preparation combining all the valuable medical qualities of the Eucalyptus, which is cultivated in nearly every California garden for its medical utility, having become the household remedy for all diseases of the KIDNEYS, BLADDER and URINARY CANAL, and SEMINAL WEAKNESS. It seems to have a direct affinity for the GENITO-URINARY ORGANS and their surroundings, and cures them by its alterative, healing and balsamic properties more effectually than any other known remedy.

It is an invaluable remedy for all diseases of the mucous and serous membranes, such as BRONCHITIS, HACKING COUGH, NAUSEA DURING PREGNANCY, DYSPEPSIA, LEUCORRHEA, etc.

This preparation is the result of Dr. Coleman's experiments with the medicinal properties of the tree in the U. S. Marine Hospital in San Francisco, in 1871 and 1872, where he had unusual facilities for testing the various methods of preparing the remedy, and its uses. It can be relied upon as certain to give the promised results, and hundreds of testimonials of its efficacy can be seen at his office, 406 Kearney street, San Francisco.

COLEMAN'S DOUBLE EXTRACT OF EUCALYPTUS, is a powerful, yet harmless, febrifuge, and is a special preparation for the treatment of the malarious fevers of our interior valleys, and is warranted to cure any case of FEVER AND AGUE treated with it according to directions, while the baneful results of the usual Quinine and arsenical remedies of those diseases are entirely avoided.

FOR PHYSICIANS, Coleman's Fluid Extract of Eucalyptus in 1-lb bottles.

GENERAL NOTES.

Matilda Heron talks of soon publishing her biography.

A complete edition of the poems of Edmund Clarence Stedman is promised.

The Fiske Jubilee Singers, a colored troupe, from Nashville, Tenn., are highly praised in London.

"The mysterious fiend of the Ganges" means cholera, according to one of our exchanges.

Anna Dickinson says she "can't stand it much longer, this newspaper lying about her coming marriage."

Some one has discovered that Dr. Holland is a direct descendant of Philip of Massasoit, but the doctor himself has no knowledge that a drop of aboriginal blood flows in his veins.

According to the Minneapolis Tribune, "Ignatius Donnelly, Congressman from Minnesota, has blistered his hands, trying to mow his lawn, so as to obtain entrance to a Grange."

A Virginia paper says: "Wise has been indorsed by Underwood. If this does not disgust him, we confess we know not what will, unless, perhaps, a letter from Browlow will have that effect."

Very laconic is the report of Capt. Shaw, of of the London Fire Brigade, regarding the destruction of the Alexandra Palace by fire. It is as follows: "A brick building, about 900 by 400 feet, burned out and roof off."

There must be a premium on celibacy in Mexico, else why is it that the daughters of the late President Jaurez are to receive an annual pension of $3,000 each while they remain single, and only $1,500 after marriage.

The New York Journal of Commerce says: "Senator Carpenter blunders greatly in belittling this powerful public sentiment with his Mephistophelean sneers. He will have time enough to regret it in that private life to which he is destined."

Mexico is not one of the ungrateful republics. She has voted $50,000 for a monument to the late President Juarez. The national flag is to be run up every time his birthday comes round, and each of his daughters has been voted a pension of $3,000 while single, and $1,500 after marriage. The best biographer of Juarez will be rewarded with $2,000.

The Springfield Republican (anti-Butler) says General Butler "is neither a reformer nor a sure, steady, radical man any way. He is beaten about by every wind and tide of impulse, ambition and passion. He is a disorganizer, a boomerang, a baggage smasher in politics and government. It is a law of his members; he can't help himself; he was made such."

Ratazzi died a poor man, his whole worldly substance being estimated under $20,000. No higher eulogy could be pronounced upon him, for with his opportunities he might have been a millionaire. Whatever enmities he may have excited during his political career were silenced by his death. His funeral is described as having been a most affecting affair, the whole population of Alessandria turning out to do honor to the remains of the great Italian statesman.

Ex-Governor Leonard Sargent, of Vermont, who was counsel for the accused at the celebrated Boorn trial, more than fifty years ago, and is the only living man thoroughly acquainted with that remarkable case, when the convicted prisoner was saved from hanging by the discovery that his supposed victim was alive and well, is soon to publish a pamphlet at the office of the Manchester (Vt.) Journal, containing an authentic record of the half-forgotten and often misquoted facts.

A Fort McPherson (Nebraska) dispatch of the 14th inst. says: "Prof. Marsh and the Yale College exploring party returned here to-day from the Niobrara river, where they spent the last month in geological investigations. The trip was successful, and many interesting discoveries were made, and many now extinct animals were found, among them several fossil horses, camels and rhinoceroses. The party are all well, and start to-morrow for Fort Bridger to explore the Uintah river country.

A Springfield (Mass.) dispatch of the 15th instant, says: "The five-mile single scull race between John Biglin and Ellis Ward for $500 a side, which was to be rowed here to-day, came to a sudden end by Ellis Ward falling forward in his boat, with a fit when opposite the two-mile flag. He was unable to proceed further. He was at the time ahead. The physician called gave the opinion that the vertigo was caused by slight congestion of the lungs, brought on by an over-exertion while suffering from cold. At a late hour this evening Ward was quite comfortable, though still weak.

Some Paris policemen were attracted, lately, at midnight, by the clinking of swords in a corner of the Place des Trone. They ran up, and were astonished to discover six noblemen, in the custume of Louis XIII., fighting furiously. One yelled: "Wait, vile Maugiron, I will pin you with my rapier against the wall!" Another moaned, as he fell mortally wounded on the ground: "Adieu, Schomburg! I am dead! Think sometimes of me! I leave my sister to thee!" The others cheered, "Vive le Roi!" The policemen feared they were in the presence of ghosts. When they recovered their professional senses, they ran on the combatants and disarmed them, and picked up the dead man. The noblemen proved to be poor, strolling players, who were rehearsing a grand drama they were to play next day.

The papers are amusing their readers with the Shah of Persia. We are told that his Persian Majesty travels with 30,000 kilogrammes of [illegible], not including his horses, one of which, the royal charger, has his tail dyed red! The Shah makes presents of jewelry and precious stones to all the princesses he comes across. The Queen of England is to receive a necklace of brilliants worth half a million. According to the Koran, he is forbidden to tread any other soil than that trodden by Mussulmans. To remedy this little drawback, the Shah has ingeniously placed a lining of earth from his own country between the soles of his boots! He never uses a pocket handkerchief twice, and when he has done with it he throws it away. These and other statements, equally extraordinary, are now going the rounds of the Paris press.

The following statement is based on information from official sources: The accounts of General Howard and his officers show a deficiency of $11,000, though only a small portion is in the name of General Howard. He admits that he has a balance of $6,000, which he is ready to pay over to the proper officers. Nearly one-half the deficit is charged to the account of a subordinate formerly on duty in the West. Letters have been received from colored men, who served in the army and navy, stating that they never received bounty, though in some cases the accounts show to the contrary. It will require an investigation to ascertain whether forged entries have been made or the statements in the letters are false. The accounts will have to undergo further examination by the collectors, and their figures may be changed either for or against Howard. Should these officers differ from others in the construction of various laws bearing upon the subject, all agree that there has been some dishonesty on the part of subordinates, though it is not believed the defalcation will amount to as much as is generally supposed.

FINANCE AND COMMERCE.

Wheat in Liverpool—Average California 11s. 9d. @11s. 11d.; Club, 12s. 5d.@12s. 6d.

The public debt of the United States was reduced from $2,191,186,713 on the 1st of January last to $2,147,818,713, on the 1st of July inst.—a reduction of $43,368,000. Since the 1st of March, 1868, the reduction is $377,641,515. The total amount of interest payable annually on this debt has been reduced from $103,321,393, at this time last year, to $97,092,969—a yearly saving of nearly six millions.

The Boston Advertiser argues that there will not be the same monetary stringency this fall, that was felt last year and one or two years before, because the balance of trade against us and in favor of Europe, is much smaller this year than usual. In the fiscal year that ended June 30, 1870, our importations of foreign merchandise were $436,000,000; exports and re-exports only $393,000,000. In the four months from June to August, 1870, inclusive, we sent away forty million dollars in gold and silver, being nearly the whole amount of the balance against us for the year. In 1871 the imports were $520,000,000, the exports and re-exports were $443,000,000. The shipments of bullion were extended in that year over a longer period, but the balance was larger, the payments were more extensive and money was tighter than in 1870. Last year our imports reached $627,000,000; exports and re-exports of merchandise only $444,000,000. In the four months from May to August inclusive, our shipments of gold and silver were above fifty millions of dollars, and the stringency was greater and longer continued than ever before. This year, however, the imports have declined and the exports have largely increased. The balance against us is consequently much smaller, and we will have to export less specie abroad to make it up. The export of coin, to pay the balance of trade against us, the Advertiser argues, necessarily compels the borrowing by the exporter of large sums from the banks to buy coin with, which makes money tight; and if we have comparatively little coin to send abroad this year, for that purpose, money should be plenty and rates easy.

Eastern Wool Market.

[Pittsburg Commercial, July 12.]

The course of the wool market still attracts attention, and the feeling that exists between the producers and manufacturers is by no means a pleasant one. Recalling the prices of last summer, the farmers feel that they should realize something more than they now are, and thus hold back their stock, while manufacturers, recalling the steady decline in the market during the whole of last winter, excepting the temporary spurt after the Boston fire, decline to buy large amounts on present terms, and confidently look for lower prices.

If there could be any great satisfaction in saying, "As we predicted," though Cassandra-like, our unpleasant but true prophecies were not to be believed, we would remind the wool producers of our oft urged warning during last season, to sell out at the figures then offered, giving the manufacturers an opportunity to work up their stock into saleable goods and realize on their fabrics; but, instead of that, prices were forced up to the highest notch, with the result to the farmers of causing them to increase their stock to such an extent, that we have an over-production this year; and to the manufacturers of being compelled to mix cotton with wool, thus giving an inferior cloth at an extra high price, with which the market is still stocked.

With these facts plainly to be seen, we then gave the opinion that wool would sell at 35 to 40 cents, and our prediction has been fully realized, domestic fleece having ranged from 35 to 52 cents, and pulled wool from 30 to 50 cents, according to quality, against 55 to 85 cents and 62 to 80 cents respectively last season—lower prices being registered this year than at any time since 1861.

The probable result will be that the farmers will kill off their sheep in preference to accepting the ruling prices for wool, and as a consequence prices were stiffer with reduced production. The advancing prices will again stimulate production until a decline sets in, when we will have the same state of affairs we are now experiencing.

Taking into consideration the amount of home production, the amount of wool reported as stored in the warehouses, the amount of manufactured goods still unsold, we venture the opinion that the farmers cannot expect to get over 43 to 45 cents for fleece wool, and that manufacturers cannot expect to make a profit if they pay any more.
